More On 'Uncircumcision'!

A doctor's Godly counsel increases a mother's faith!

From Sarah Beloved; Australia:

Dearest Dad & Maria, MY LITTLE BOY WAS 6 MONTHS OLD when your Letter "Uncircumcision" came out. I had never read anywhere about cleaning the penis, etc. so I was very thankful for your counsel. Well, my boy's foreskin would not peel back at all. I counselled with quite a few different mothers who all had differing opinions about what to do & why it wouldn't peel back.

WORRIED & UPSET ABOUT MY IGNORANCE, I prayed desperately & believed the Lord could heal it & the very next day I read some very encouraging things in a book entitled "Book of Childcare" by Dr. Hugh Jolly.

HERE'S A QUOTE FROM PAGE 60 ABOUT "TIGHT FORESKIN": "Twenty years ago research showed that the foreskin & tip of the penis are united at birth, having developed from a single bud. Thus there is no reason to 'cure' this natural condition by circumcision. Separation of the foreskin from the tip of the penis occurs gradually & is usually complete by the age of 3 or 4; this is nature's way of 'circumcising'. Consequently the term 'phimosis', indicating a foreskin which is so tight that it cannot be pulled back, is a meaningless phrase when applied to the early days of life & is not a valid reason for early circumcision as was once believed."

"Forcing back the foreskin before it goes back easily by itself is likely to tear the skin, causing bleeding. This tear heals with scarring which permanently joins the foreskin to the tip of the penis, so that correction by circumcision does become necessary."

"Clearly therefore, the best thing to do about your newborn son's foreskin is nothing: leave it alone until it has separated & can be pushed back easily."

IN "UNCIRCUMCISION" para. 8, it says, "Before age 2½ you should start working it down..." whereas Dr. Jolly suggests around age 4. I think that perhaps 2½ would be the better age to start, especially if the skin does push back easily. I hope that these quotes can be a blessing to you & others. May God bless & keep you, dear Dad & Maria, as we all need you so much! Love, Sarah Beloved.

ITALY: HAPPINESS IS A HANDFUL—OR TWO! Here's Tiziana—20 with Chiara—7 months, daughter of Cristina & Gabriele—2 months of Miriam & Bro. Sun. Below is Fiore, age 6, whom they adopted 8 months ago. Arriving in bad condition both physically & spiritually, today she is a new person after all the love she has received! Now at school for the first time she is being a good witness for the Lord. TTL for another life changed by His Love!
