Once when I was a young Christian they were having this big Christmas celebration in our church, and they had someone all dressed up as Santa Claus passing out candy and everyone brought a present for someone else. And I thought, "How come, if it's Jesus' birthday, why don't we give Him presents and sing songs about Him, instead of singing all this other stuff?" I got so mad, the longer I watched and the more I saw.

And right in the middle of all this foolishness I burst out singing, "Happy Birthday, Dear Jesus," and that's all I had to do. Everyone looked so ashamed. Here they were celebrating Christmas and they had forgotten all about the Lord. No presents for Jesus, no songs for Jesus.

If it's the Lord's birthday, why don't we give Him the presents? Instead of spending all that money on each other, why not give it to the Lord's work?

Why not send it to some missionaries or people who really need it?
