join them--almost a challenge--when they saw our guitar. But "You Gotta Be a Baby" soon had them happily clapping hands and singing along. Afterwards, we gave them a bigger challenge: to come along to Heaven with us. Several of them responded positively and soon we had a circle of 10 praying with us to receive Jesus. They were as sweet as little kids after that GBT.

Well, we were ready to call it a day after that. But wait, where is Paulo? Oh, he's still busy collecting addresses for the MM!

Walking on a little ways under the trees and enjoying God's Creation, we met a group of "cool" teenagers strumming guitars. They invited us to Faith Trip To Sumatra With 10 Children!

PRISCILLA, DIMAS & MICHAEL ON THE BOAT TRIP.

Recently we decided to make a trip to South Sumatra to visit our many precious students and sheep there whom we had contacted through our English radio programme and correspondence course. Of course, our whole family of 10 children wanted to go, so our close friend and helper, Irwan, volunteered to come with us and help with everything, and wonderfully his boss then offered to pay for everything! God bless him!

PTL! - Tk's! GBT!

GBT, WLYSM and are praying for you always.

We would like to share this testimony with you about the situation in Indonesia at the moment.

There is a big political campaign going on all over Indonesia because of the presidential elections on the fourth of May. The two big parties are really doing their best to win.

One is the fanatic Islamic party and the other one named Golkar supports the president Mr Soeharto. We really feel that the Golkar party needs our prayers because Indonesia has been so open to the Family and our message for years now.

For example at the moment in all the big cities of Indonesia they are showing a movie called "Jesus".

This movie is really inspiring it is about the life of Jesus and follows the book of Luke exactly, it is beautiful. At the end of the movie there is a strong salvation message and an invitation to receive Jesus into your heart.

After the movie we were passing out the TK Jesus loves you and we noticed that many people had a real light in their eyes and for sure many of them had been saved TVJ. A few days after the movie was on in the city where we live we went to the capital and while going office to office we met the director of the company who released this movie in Indonesia.

He is a Moslem and he was very receptive and friendly.

He told us the government approved the release of the film. We feel it is probably part of the campaign to show the people that the country really is open to other religions which is also written in the constitution of Indonesia.

So in order to be able to keep working freely in Indonesia we would like to request your prayers for president Soeharto and his party. - Amun! - We're praying! GBT! - ben, D

We really love you and are so thankful for everything you've done for us and couldn't think of a better way of life.

than this one for Jesus and others.

We set off late one Sunday evening and travelled all night to the capital.

There we stopped for refreshment at Ben and Miriam's who themselves have five children. You can imagine what a rip-roaring inspiration we all had together after the evening meal! Early the next day we drove to the ferry and had a beautiful crossing to Sumatra. The journey from the ferry to the main town was only a short one, but what started as a highway ended as a track!

As we entered the main town our kids in the back cried out, "look! Look! There's a white man following us!" Sure enough there was this smiling, bearded European following us on a vespa! We waved him down and he turned out to be a catholic missionary from Italy called Pastor Peco. After a few moments conversation he went off, and immediately returned with one of his parishioners who invited us all to stay with her! What angels she and he were! May God bless them both.
